STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE AT BRIDGEWATER

January 27, 1955

Dear Seniors:

I am happy to greet you through the agency of Alpha as you prepare yourselves for the turning in the road.

Your Alma Mater has worked with you and for you during the past four years, fashioning and designing you for your profession. During that time she has urged you to work hard, to play hard, and to pray hard that out of this thoughtful blending an integrated person might emerge: serious, mature, and ready for your God-given vocation. For surely we know that the process of education bears its richest fruit when we add to the understanding of the true and the appreciation of the beautiful, the effective desire and the determined will to bring behavior into honest harmony with the canons of truth, goodness, and beauty.

You have been most fortunate in your choice of a Teachers College. Here amid a modern setting, you have learned ageless lessons. The Bridgewater of today might amaze the early leaders who wrought in a generation that built its schools of spirit and zeal with just a few boards and a little plaster added for good measure. I doubt that they would find any great change in the essence of the Bridgewater purpose—the shaping of the teaching mind and heart, the development of the teaching attitude.

Now that your elysian years are over, you must labor, in season and out, to hold fast to the inspirations that breathed life into your school. These inspirations will remain with you only so long as you are anxious to be touched and guided by them. When they become merely subject matter for the Bridgewater story and recorded as something that used to be, then indeed, your college will become but the battered remnant of a lost cause and you its faithless army. Let your concern for Alma Mater's good name and your own noble vision be a lamp to your feet and a flame to your hearts.

Remember, finally, that the best influence wielded by the teacher is that of good example as it supplements good precept. Those whom you may teach will not become the world's best citizens through a formal study of right and wrong; rather they must be reared and inspired not only in the home but in the classroom and on the playing field by teachers whose very goodness gives a pleasant glow to the atmosphere.

Alma Mater, bidding you a motherly au-revoir, asks only that you so live and so teach as to be worthy always of your noble profession.

Sincerely,
Clement Maxwell
President

Dedication

We, the class of 1955, fondly and respectfully dedicate this edition of the Alpha to Mr. Daniel J. Noonan. His ability to understand and to satisfy the needs of his students, both in and out of the classroom, we feel has made him an outstanding member of our profession.

In this, one of our last acts as members of the undergraduate body, the class of 1955 presents its edition of the Alpha.

As you have probably noticed, many changes have taken place between these two new covers. In making a change, our purpose was always the same: to make this a more meaningful, vital and vivid chronicle of our past four years.

Obviously we feel pictures speak louder than words. All writing has been cut to a bare minimum. It is the first time in the history of the college that a full color picture has been published in the yearbook. The number of student-taken candid and professionally taken pictures have both been increased considerably. Full page pictures are this year just exactly that. An effort was made to make all pictures as large as possible.

Married seniors were asked for pictures of the big day to make another new feature this year. Coverage at functions of all sorts was increased so that this book might come to represent and picture a wider cross-section of B. T. C.

We are deeply indebted to an excellent publisher and to a superior photographer. Without their constant aid and co-operation our efforts would have produced little. The list of people I would like to thank for their help during the year is a long one. I will make every effort to do so personally.

The best of luck in your future years at Bridgewater. May they be as full, as rewarding, and as much fun as ours have been.
